ANNOUNCEMENTS

OPERA PATIENCE AT

DAVIS THEATRE MAY 17 To be Given Under the Auspices the Woman's Auxiliary of the Y. M.

Patience, or Bunthorne's Bride, by Gilbert and Sullivan, the composers of H. M. S. Pinafore, The Pirates of Penzeance and a score of other light operas, which is to be given at the Davis May 17, matinee and evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Auxillary of the Y. M. C. A., is known as one of the prettiest pieces of stage work which these prolific authors ever wrote. While Pinafore may be somewhat batter than a proper than the parties than a proper to the present the parties than a proper to the penal of their penal of thei what better known than any of their works it is entirely the result of the fact that this opera is very easily staged and consequently first chosen for amateur performance. Plnafore is a satire on the English navy while Patience in the same way ridicules the craze of astheticism which prevailed in England at the time this opera was written. Burthorne an inera was written. Bunthorne, an insipid nobleman, in his love of female admiration affects the guise of the aesthetic poet, writes sickly sentimental verse and assumes a love for everything that is ultra in character. Grosvenor, who is "gifted with a beauty which probably has no rival on earth" is so dismayed at the popularity of Bunthorne that he too assumes the garb and manner of the aesthete and the ladies immediately desert their former idol and follow Grosvenor. Even the officers of the Dragon Guards, who had become quite accustomed to the admiration of the ladies, in their despair, are forced to follow sult. Bauthorne, who is re-sponsible for the whole situation now becomes so madly jealous of Gros-venor's success that he compels him under threat to again become "a matter of fact young man."
Patience, the village milkmaid, who has vacillated between love and duty, finally bestows her affections upon Grosvenor; the ladies return to the Dragoon Guards and Bunthorne still wearing his aesthetic guise is left alone. The opera is full of pretty pictures, pretty music, pretty girls; and will be a delight both to see and to listen to. The committee in charge urgently requests the advance pur-chase of tickets in order that the financial success of the performances

AT THE DAVIS TODAY.

Three More Performances Conclude the Engagement of the Norwich Favotes, Homan's Musical Revue.

Homan's Musical Revue concludes their engagement today by presenting three performances, one this afternoon and two this evening. The Homan Revue players have made many new friends in the past week as well as renewing many old ones. Yesterday the revue presented the most laughable success of the week, Casey at the Midnight Cabaret, which is one continuous laugh from start to finish, any many of the theatregoers of the Davis considered it the best that had been presented during the week. It is about the so-called Casey who visits the cabaret after having a hard time to get away from his wife. on arriving at the cabaret he meets an old friend, and in the meantime meets many new ones. After Casey becomes acquainted he feels right to becomes acquainted he feels right to home, then the fun starts.

Casey's friends start to play all sorts of jokes on him, but good natured Casey takes all this in good fun, and in the midst of all this Bob Jewett and Clara Eigin display a few dancing steps, William O'Connell puts over a couple of Irving Berlin's latest ballads, Gene Beaudry is heard in a new bass solo and many sags etc. new bass solo and many gags, etc., are displayed. Of course Casey has to be the goat in all this, but he has just as much fun as his associates. The Cabaret will be presented today, with just as much frolic that was presented vesteriay. presented yesterday.

The feature photoplay is an excit-ing five part Triangle drama. The Flying Torpedo, with John Emerson, the well known actor and author, in the leading role. The story is an imaginative one, woven around an inventor who has successfully made a machine for flying torpedoes. Before he can complete the manufacture of them, he is mysteriously killed and it is the running to earth of the murder-er by Archibald Claverin, a detective of eccentric manners, and a Swedish servant girl, which makes the story one of the most thrilling of the year. A Village Blacksmith, an uprogrious! funny two-reel Keystone comedy, will complete the show.

NEXT WEEK AT THE AUDITORIUM Bob Ott Musical Comedy Company and Fannie Ward in The Cheat.

There will be something doing at the Auditorium every afternoon and night next week, because Bob Ott's Musical Comedy company will present six new high class musical comedies in which the amusing situations most of the time fairly run riot. The cordial reception accorded this company everywhere they appear is an indication that the time is ripe for just this sing outless where they appear is a single that the time is ripe for just this sing outless with the section is swift the show, wherein the action is swift, the comedy crisp yet clean, the cances pretty and the music melodious. The whole is punctuated at frequent inter-vals by the introduction of a lot of wholesome looking chorus ladies, whose dances, marches and poses add materially to the beauty of the excellent at-

Make no mistake by confusing this with regular dramatic attractions. Bob Ott's comedians, headed by himself, present musical comedies in which the features are much as patrons expect in regular $1.50 shows. Bob Ott has no peer as a comedian and his well gowned chorus has few equals and no superiors.

Besides this big attraction, Paramount five-reel features will be shown each day from 2 to 3 in the afternoon and from 7 to 8 evenings. Monday's feature is one of Lasky's best productions, entitled The Cheat, featuring Fanny Ward, supported by Sussue Harveleyer the well known Language. Hayakawa, the well known Japaness actor, and a notable cast. There will be two shows daily at 2 and 7 p. m., and each show will run over three hours. Prices will be, matinee 10c and 20c, and evening 10c, 20c and 20c. Reserved seats for any performance dur-ing the week are now on sale at the box office and the Auditorium hotel.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

The special feature at the Colonial today is Pieces of the Game, Essanay drama in three parts. He is risen—O yould thou too arisel Too long thou sisepest in a dream of death,
Shrouded in sin and sepulchred in lies;
O drink the morning incense of his breath,
And in the dews of his auroral word Bathe thy sick soul, like innocent flower or bird,
And seek the healing pity of His eyes. Shall the soul still sleep on and take no heedno heed—Though the clod quicken, and the meadows turn
To glittering grass, and the despaired of seed
Flames resurrection from its wintry

Flames resurrection to the string of the lost song comes singing back again,
And the old tears grow soft as April rain.

Shall the soul still sleep on and take no heed! Shell the hard earth have ears for the soft spring. Answering her footsteps with a smile of flowers. of flowers, and bidding all her birds a welcome sing. Building for her chapels of wildwood bowers, With violet censers sweet and And altar garlands of the wandering vine,

And has the soul no welcome for its King! Must Nature teach her parable in vain To eyes grown blind with custom and deed ears. Death and rebirth, and death and birth again, open secret of the singin spheres,
The dream made dust, the dust
again a dream,
And heaven and earth co-partners in the scheme Whereby man grows to spirit in sun and rain!

POETRY WHAT NEWS THIS EASTER DAYS

What news this Easter day? The morn ls red With eager fire, as though some counter came cross the heavens, with news coloutial sped.

And the glad east throws wide its gates of flame;
While rings from east to west, from north to south,
A voice that hath the morning stars for mouth.
